Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Applicant's arguments filed on 06/05/2009 AND 08/27/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument filed on 06/05/2009 which is substantially the same as argument filed on 08/27/2008 that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention i.e. a mobile station uses (See Landais e.g. MS communicating via the network as shown in Fig. 1), in accordance with its requirements, one of different types of packet mode resource requests corresponding to different transfer modes (See Landais e.g. differing requirements, mobile station, EGPRS, Page 2, [0029]) that the mobile station supports, the different transfer modes (See Landais e.g. two modes, etc., Page 2, [0029]) including the GPRS and the EGPRS modes.

In contrast to Applicant assertion, Examiner very kindly directs the Applicant that Landais teaches frankly teaches the mobile station uses, in accordance with its requirements, one of different types of packet mode resource requests corresponding to different transfer modes that the mobile station supports, said different transfer modes including the GPRS (See Landais e.g. GPRS, Page 1, [0002]) and the EGPRS modes (See Landais e.g. EGPRS, Page 2, [0029]). Further, the mobile station (See Landais e.g. MS of Fig. 1) using a type of packet set mode resource request (See Landais e.g. packet resource request containing a precise description of the required resource, Page 2, [0026]) and or in downlink direction (See Landais e.g. downlink, Page 1, [0025]) corresponding to EGPRS mode (Page 2, GPRS, [0029], packet mode, two modes, Page 2, including cause data specifying signaling data transfer requirements (See Landais e.g. per definition: signaling, mobility management, Page1, [0018], one-phase or two-phase access, Page 1, [0023]). Basically, as discussed above, the MS support both mode of data transfer (I.e. GPRS and EGPRS) and clearly specifies via packet resource request containing a precise description of the required resource, Page 2, [0026] which is including the cause or reason i.e. signaling and or the mobility management as defined by the dependent claim and the specification. Further more, Landais teaches signal message (inherently) include a paging response (See e.g. the mobile station sends the network a PACKET CHANNEL REQUEST message, as noted at 1, on a common uplink channel (PRACH). The network then responds with a PACKET UPLINK ASSIGNMENT message, as noted at 2, on a common downlink channel (PAGCH or paging), the latter message indicating directly to the mobile station the resources (PDCH) it has been assigned. The mobile station then uses those resources to transmit data (or RLC data blocks), as noted at 3, in the uplink direction, Page 4. [0077]). Further, contrary to Applicant assertion the Landais does not teach or suggest the EGPRS PACKET CHANNEL REQUEST). Examiner very kindly directs the Applicant to [0024], the mobile station, the latter sends the network a PACKET CHANNEL REQUEST message on an uplink packet random access channel (PRACH) or a CHANNEL REQUEST message on a common uplink random access channel (RACH) and [0029], the mobile station to support the enhanced general packet radio service (EGPRS).

Applicant(s) are remained that the Examiner is entitled to give the broadest reasonable interpretation to the language of the claim. The Examiner is not limited to Applicant's definition, which is not specifically set fourth in the claims, In re Tanaka et al., 193 USPQ 139, (CCPA) 1977. Therefore, the previous rejection is maintained.
